Risk management for businesses: How loss control experts can help.

Risk management for businesses is critical. Even though we usually think of our business insurance as coming to the rescue after a loss, the best way to cut your losses is to prevent them from ever happening. For busy entrepreneurs, however, risk management can get put on the back burner. That's where loss control consultants come in. Loss control consultants from Patriot Insurance Company are available to assist businesses that are at higher risk for workplace losses.

Loss control experts can help make your workplace, employees, and your bottom line safer. Here are three ways they can help your business with risk management.

- Conducting a site visit. Loss control experts can visit your workplace to identify possible hazards.
 Because they are uniquely trained to seek out potential risks, they can quickly find areas that need improvement and recommend the best ways to prevent losses. Whether you need to improve ergonomics, upgrade equipment maintenance, or invest in better employee training, loss control consultants can determine the right risk management tactics for your unique workplace.
- 2. Performing loss analyses. If you've already experienced workplace losses, a loss control expert can help you get to the root cause to prevent them from happening in the future. Was that employee injury due to faulty equipment or improper training? If a customer took a fall on a store's steps, was it because the steps weren't maintained or because they're simply too narrow? Getting to the bottom of past losses can make your company's future safer and more prosperous for all concerned.

3. Assessing your company's safety programs. You may already have safety programs in place, but are they effective? Loss control consultants can evaluate your existing safety measures or give you the tools to develop new programs. If you turn to Patriot Insurance Company for risk management assistance, you'll have training videos, sample safety plans, quizzes and more at your disposal, helping you establish safety procedures unique to your business's needs and the ability to educate your employees on how to use them.

Patriot Insurance Company has a team of expert loss control consultants that assist businesses at a higher hazard grade with risk management. A proactive approach to loss control can help make your company safer and more financially secure, today and in the future.

To learn more about risk management strategies and loss control consultants from Patriot Insurance Company, contact your local, independent agent.